At Mother's knee we're told, that it's wrong to tell lies
Yet we tell ourselves, that house-prices rise and rise and rise
I guess it's really good, with a-no, mortgage country pile
But for the rest of us, there is no baby boomer smile

The banks are cowboys, over-us roughshod they ride
All I ever wanted, was a house I could buy
Not expensively rented, but a house I could buy
D D-D-D F D

Sometimes I weep, at the ratio of my wage
To the home I seek, and the price I'd have to pay
I'm not looking for a mansion
Just some green and pleasant land
Not a poky two-bed flat
At over two hundred and fifty grand

The banks are cowboys, over-us roughshod they ride
All I ever wanted, was a house I could buy
Not a chalet I am tempted, but a house I could buy
D D-D-D F D

I've got an honest job, went to college, paid my dues
Yet in this financial game
I guess I'm gonna lose
I've looked everywhere
Drew a box within Rightmove
But the houses cost a million
That I wanna choose

The banks are cowboys, over-us roughshod they ride
All I ever wanted, was a house I could buy
Not a camper-van that's dented, but a house I could buy

The banks are cowboys, over-us roughshod they ride
All I ever wanted, was a house I could buy
Not a cardboard box or tented, but a house I could buy

A house I could buy
A house I could buy
D D-D-D F D (let ring)
